Collapse of a Big Water Tank Deluges a Steam Laundry.

NARROW ESCAPE OF THE ENGINEER

Caught Ender the Crombling Walls of His Engine Room and Almost Drowned by the Flood of Water from the Broken Tank.

A big cave-in occurred yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Evans laundry, corner of Main street and Sixth avenue, and J. A. Keller, the engineer, came within an ace of losing his life. The engine room is located at the rear end of the building on the north side. From the main wall to a twelve-incl wall some twenty feet away were run heavy timbers, which supported a water tank twelve feat high, containing 300 barrels. This tank was kept full constantly. The theory advanced by some of the members of the fire department is that the constant jarring of the engine, and perhaps the movement of the water, gradually weakened the walls of the building Yesterday the neighbors for a block around were startled at a crash, and on going to see what was the matter bound that the walls of the engine room, for a distance of perhaps twenty feet, lay with pardly one brick on top of another. The roof had caved in and the water tank was pouring out its contents in a flood. So suddenly did the crash come that Engineer Keller didn't have time to get out. Fortunately a big iron water pipe fell in such a way as o make a sort of archway over him. was seen a few seconds later crawling out of a place so small that it seemed as though he could not have escaped alive. He was nearly drowned by the flood that deluged the interior of the laundry. His body was a mass of bruises from head to foot, but he seemed to have suffered no broken bones or nternal injuries. damage done is estimated at about It will be several days before the aundry will be able to do its usual work.

Fiual Proceedings in an Appeal to the Supreme Court Seem Imminent. The resurrection of George Feurhauken's ase is about to take place. Feurhauken has a large second hand establishment on North Eighth street, near the Northwestern roundhouse, at which any old thing may be bought and sold. Feurhauken got hold of some stolen property something less than ten years ago, and after the case had been tried in the district court in the spring of 1889, he turned out to be unable to prove that he did so inno-cently. He was sentenced to a three-years' term in the state penitentlary. His attorney legal practice interested the public couple of years about that time. McGuigan served notice of appeal to the supreme court and at odd times people have wondered why Feurhauken never went to the penitentiary. It now turns out that McGuigan never die will preach in the Congregational church anything but serve a notice of appeal. NO MORE COMFORT FOR VAGRANTS Bread and Water in a Cold Cell to Be Their Portion in the Future.

Council Bluffs has been making a great reputation for itself during the past few weeks as a summer resort for tramps. In the month of June seventy-one were registered at the marshal's office, while during participated in the annual perade of the order the first twelve days of July there were twenty-five. For about a month the chain gang has been a thing of the past. A whole car load of tramps would be brought in, several of them singled out by the police and given a ride up town in the patrol wagon. The rest would be left to prey upon the people of the city, principally because there was not room for them all in the jail. The next morning, after having a night's lodging and two or three meals at the expense of and two or three meals at the expense of the city, they would be sentenced to five or ten days in the city jail, and given the option of taking the first train out of the city. Some of them liked it so well that they decided to try it over again, but most of them were contented with a good thing without trying to get the earth, and left the city, showering benedictions on the kind hearted police authorities. Marshal Canning has at last come to the onclusion that he will do what he can to prevent things from going on in the future as they have in the past. He consulted yesterday with the justices of the peace with a view to having a bread and water diet given all tramps who turn up at the city fail. Just what will be done has not yet been decided. A bill of fare of this simple sort will undoubtedly be provided, however, or else Mayor Cleaver will be induced to appear a policyman to take charge uced to appoint a policeman to take charge f the chain gang. Esadale's curgar. In looking through his house Officer E. Easdale found that the burglars who broke in Thursday afternoon took a lot of jewelry, a watch, revolver and some clothing. Just how much of the latter he cannot tell, however, as his wife is still in Kansas and he does not know how much she has with her. A large bundle of clothing was found in the house, lying on the floor, where the thieves had evidently left it, being frightened away before they had completed their job. The man who occupied the house during Easdale's absence was there at 3:30 in the afternoon and said the house was all right.

that things seemed considerably torn up, but did not have time to make an examination. A man named Swanson, who lives near Easdale, says that about 4 o'clock a man knocked at Easdale's door, and as no one unlocked it, he went between the two houses. A basement window between the houses was where it was afterward found the thleves went in. At the house of Wilson James, another neighbor, two men called during the afternoon and knocked at the door. Immediately after knocking they opened the door and walked in, asking for something to cat. Upon being refused they left immediately. The police have been fur-nished a description of the two men, one of whom is the same one who was seen knocking at Easdale's door. One of the men was about 33 years of age, heavy set, with three weeks' growth of beard on his face, and wearing dark, rough clothes. The other was six feet tall, dark complexion and hair, with six inches of beard, wearing rough clothes and a belt full of cartridges.

TIRED OF FREE SILVER TALK Montana's Ex-Senator Says the West is Weary of Demagogy.

NEW YORK, July 12 .- Ex-Senator M. F. Sanders of Montana is in the city. In an interview he said: "We are seeing better times in Montana, and all through the northwest. Business is picking up. "The free silver talk by newspapers and demagogues is something wearying. There is not a newspaper between Minneapolis and the Pacific coast that is not full of the cries '16 to 1.' 'The crime of '73,' 'Oppression to 'International agreement, Sherman, and they are full of all the rest of the rot. Religious papers are also devot-ing space to the discussion.

Trouble

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., July 12 .- (Special.) Serious difficulty, if not bloodshed, is imminent between the settlers and stockmen residing on Medicine creek, northwest of here in the ceded Sioux lands. In the ravines and valleys along Medicine creek and its tributaries the hay crop is unusually abundant, and it is the possession of this hay that has caused the bitter feeling existing between the stockmen and settlers. A few days agstockmen were driven from the hay land, and were so badly scattered that it took the cow were so saily scattered that it took the cow-boys some time to again gather them to-gether. This enraged the stockmen, and threats of a violent nature were exchanged by the opposing parties. As the coveted hay is located on vacant government land, both the stockmen and settlers naturally clain equal rights to its possession. Some of the cattlemen claim that the hot-headed spirits among the settlers have threatened to raid the cowboy camps and lynch the cowpunchers, and to guard against a move of this character the cattlemen and their employes have armed themselves. Reliable and conservative par-ties who are familiar with the feeling on both sides declare that the matter has really eached a serious point, and that a bloddy lash between the stockmen and settlers in liable to occur at any moment.

Jackson Hole Country the Scene of the Con

a Reckless Manner. CHEYENNE, July 12 .- (Special Telegram.) A report was received here today from W. L. Simpson, county attorney of Fremont county, giving details of a fight between the settlers of the Jackson Hole region and a hunting party of Bannock Indians from the Lemhi agency, Idaho. The report was brought to Fort Washakie by a Bannock

Indian sent in as a courier. The fight arose over the attempt on June 29 to arrest seven Bannocks for the unlawful killing of game. The arrest was attempted by a constable from Maryvale, aided by three men. The Indians stood the party off with their guns, and the officers sent ne of their men back for reinforcements. A large number of the Jackson Hole settlers volunteered to go to his aid, and en July 3 the Indians, who kept on the move, and who had been joined by a second hunting party, were overtaken in the Fall River basin, near the Uinta county line.

The Indians were surrounded, and when colored

The Indians were surrounded, and when ordered to surrender showed fight, and attempted to escape. They were headed off and when one of their men was shot, immediately made signs that they were willing to surrender. Fifteen of them, the entire party, were captured. Simpson left for Jackson Hole yesterday, and will take charge of the case against the Indians If he finds they have violated the law.

the case against the Indians if he finds they have violated the law.

The Jackson Hole country lies immediately south of the Yellowstone National park, and is one of the fin st hunting grounds of the west. Deer, elk, bear, and, in some seasons, buffalo are found in abundance. It is a favorite place for hunting parties of Indians whose methods are a constant source of ir ritation to the settlers, who depend for their fresh meat upon the game, and who are desirous of preserving it.

CONSTANT SOURCE OF TROUBLE. CONSTANT SOURCE OF TROUBE of the The present trouble is the outcome of the Sontinuous violation of the game laws by Indians from the reservations outside of Wyoming. The Shoshones and Arapahoes, the ning. The Shoshones and Arapahoes, thouly Indians of Wyoming, are kept on their reservation by their agent, and there has been no trouble with them. The Crows from Montana and the Bannocks from Idaho, howver, come through the country and slaugh ter game wantonly. They have a deprayed taste for feeding on the unborn young of elk, and slaughter the mother, leaving the body to rot on the plains. Numerous complaints have been made to the Interior department by Wyoming representatives in congress, and by the various governors of the state during the past four years, Requests have been made that the Indians be kept on their reservations and refused asses to travel through Wyoming. The In-lians take advantage of passes given them to visit other reservations than their own to get into the Jackson Hole region on hunting rips. They have on idea that they are not menable to state laws, being national wards, and have disregarded the threats of arrest made by local officers and settlers. During he past month the matter was reviewed by Governor Richards in a letter to Secretary Smith of the Interior department, and it was then predicted that unless the evil was remedied a conflict between the Indians and set ers was inevitable. It is believed the recent fight will end th rouble for the time being, as the settlers ar fully able to arrest any hunting party of In-dians which may be found breaking the law.
